Emma Sivell aka Sivellink <https://www.facebook.com/Sivellink> is an English born graphic designer working on a year long design project entitled "An icon a day" which comprises of daily graphic Copenhagen based illustrations. These icons are Emma's online sketchbook, and a "springboard" for limited edition Copenhagen posters and cards. Available from webshop - <http://sivellink.dk/shop>

Living in Copenhagen for the past 10 years has given Emma a love of this unique, and unquestionably beautiful city, she now calls home. An icon a day focus' on Copenhagen's skyline, buildings, designers, and also the small details such as a street lamp, or the decorated green boards around the Metro builds. Emma's love of architecture stems from her childhood as her father was an architect and growing up she was constantly doodling on the corner of a vast drawing board that was central to their lives, always occupying most of the dining room table. Only the location and the technology have changed....She's still drawing at her dining room table.

A mix of design choice and Emma's natural graphic style make the illustrations colour rich and simple. Her Facebook blog followers see her icons/images predominately on their phones, so the designs have to be attractive and stand out on a small scale.

The blog is an event calendar too. Illustrating exhibitions and events in and around Copenhagen.
